

Bio – Dustin Diep

Dustin Diep received his undergraduate degree in industrial engineering from Oregon State University. He is currently working as an analyst for Deloitte Consulting as a part of the Government and Public Services area. He joined IISE in 2016 as a part of the student chapter and is currently involved with leadership with the Western Region as well as the sustainable development division. His interests lie in continuous improvement activities and sustainability.